CONFERENCE DESCRIPTION

The goal of the CLIER CME program is to promote the cause and to extend the knowledge of obstetrics and gynecology through the exchange of information related to this specialty in medicine. - Compare the statistical outcomes of radiofrequency volumetric thermal ablation of fibroids vs. other fibroid therapies
- Counsel patients on the risks and benefits associated with out-of-hospital births compared with in-hospital births
- List two strategies that have proven to increase patient safety on a labor and delivery unit
- Describe the components of the confidential adolescent visit
- Discuss recent updates in contraception
- Relate how BRCA and homologous recombination defects (HRD) affect the treatment of ovarian cancer
