

CLIER Cuba 2017

Global Women's Health Issues

October 24 to 27, 2017

Co-Course Directors:
Catherine Harth, MD and Karin Wollschlaeger, MD

CONFERENCE DESCRIPTION

The goal of the CME program is to discuss health care issues that affect women and have global significance. We seek to improve our knowledge of the health care system in Cuba in areas that have significance to our patient population in the US. Topics: Infections Diseases Common in Cuba; Advising the Reproductive Age and Pregnant Traveler on Zika Infection Risk; Decreasing Infant Mortality; Vaccination Programs; and Medical Response to Natural Disasters.

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this activity, the learner is expected to:

- Generate a differential diagnosis on a recent traveler to the Caribbean exhibiting symptoms of fever
- Counsel a pregnant patient who has possible Zika exposure on testing and surveillance
- Discuss 3 strategies that are in place in the US to attempt to prevent preterm delivery
- Discuss impact and difficulties with vaccination against HPV related disease

ACCREDITATION STATEMENT

ACCOMMODATIONS AND LOCATION

Melia Cohiba Hotel, Ave Paseo entry 1y3, Havana, Cuba

DISCLOSURE DECLARATIONS

As a provider accredited by the ACCME, The University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine asks everyone who is in a position to control the content of an education activity to disclose all relevant financial relationships with any commercial interest. This includes any entity producing, marketing, re-selling, or distributing health care goods or services consumed by or used on patients. The ACCME defines "relevant financial relationships" as financial relationships in any amount occurring within the past 12 months, including financial relationships of a spouse or life partner that could create a conflict of interest. Mechanisms are in place to identify and resolve any potential conflict of interest prior to the start of the activity.

Additionally, The University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine requires authors to identify investigational products or off-label uses of products regulated by the US Food and Drug Administration, at first mention and where appropriate in the content.
