CLINICAL MEDICAL ETHICS

The MacLean Center for Clinical Medical Ethics (CME) at the University of Chicago is the oldest, largest, and most successful program in clinical ethics in the world. CME is a medical field started at the University of Chicago in 1972 that addresses practical ethical issues such as truth telling, informed consent, confidentiality/privacy, and even end of life care, that arise in routine, daily encounters among patients, doctors, nurses, allied health workers, and health care institutions. CME applies not only to the fairly low number of 70,000 ethics consultations done each year in the US, but more importantly, it applies to ALL patients who are seen by clinicians in everyday, routine care of inpatients (40-45) million annually in the US) and of outpatients (1.5-1.7 billion annually in the US). Since the MacLean Center was founded in 1984, the Center has trained more than 625 clinical ethics fellows. Current and former MacLean Center fellows and faculty have published more than 225 books. In November 2016, Dr. Siegler and the MacLean Center received the prestigious Meyerhoff Award from the Johns Hopkins Berman Institute of Bioethics. The award states: "The training program established by the MacLean Center has had a greater impact than any other clinical medical ethics training program in the world."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This conference remembers Dorothy Jean MacLean, who helped create the MacLean Center and was deeply committed to its work. D.J. MacLean believed that education was the best way to improve the world and throughout her life supported many leading educational institutions. The Conference organizers wish to thank Barry and the late Mary Ann MacLean, who for 25 years served as co-chairs of the Center's Advisory Board. We also thank the MacLean family, especially Barry, Duncan and Gillian MacLean, for their continuing support of the Center and this annual conference. We want to thank the MacLean Center's current Chair of the Board, Rachel Kohler, for her superb leadeship, guidance, support, and insights as the Center moves forward.

We wish to acknowledge the Center's distinguished Advisory Board and the following individuals for their support of the MacLean Center: the late Lindy Bergman, Kay and the late Matthew Bucksbaum, Martha and Bruce Clinton and the Clinton Family Foundation, Janet and Craig Duchossois, Ann Dudley and Stan Goldblatt, Joan Harris and the Irving Harris Foundation, Connie and Dennis Keller and the Keller Family Foundation, Rachel Kohler and Mark Hoplamazian, Dick and Michaela Parrillo, Amelia Mazzolin, Carole and Gordan Segal, Caroline Grossinger, Annamette and Henrik Clausen, the late Julius Lewis, Brenda Shapiro and the Shapiro Family Foundation, Bryan Traubert and the Pritzker-Traubert Family Foundation. We especially wish to thank our outstanding current and former faculty as well as all our current and former fellows for making the MacLean Center the leading program in Clinical Medical Ethics in the United States and internationally. This 2-day conference is widely regarded as one of the leading clinical ethics conferences in the world.

DISCLOSURE DECLARATIONS

As a provider accredited by the ACCME, The University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine asks everyone in a position to control the content of an education activity to disclose all financial relationships with any ineligible companies. This includes any entity whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients. Financial relationships are relevant if a financial relationship, in any amount, exists between the person in control of content and an ineligible company during the past 24 months, and the content of the education is related to the products of an ineligible company with whom the person has a financial relationship. Mechanisms are in place to identify and mitigate any relevant financial relationships prior to the start of the activity.

Additionally, The University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine requires Authors to identify investigational products or off-label uses of products regulated by the US Food and Drug Administration at first mention and where appropriate in the content.

Learning objectives: At the conclusion of this activity, the attendees will be able to do the following: discuss how clinical medical ethics applies broadly to the American and global healthcare systems; explain how to apply clinical medical ethics principles to situations they encounter in their own specialties; and describe how current literature and directives in the field of clinical medical ethics help them to make improved clinical and ethical decisions in their practice. This activity has been designed for health care professionals interested in the field of clinical medical ethics.
