Gluten Challenges in Celiac Disease

Join us November 18, for a virtual Continuing Medical Education (CME) event to explore Gluten Challenges in Celiac Disease.

The conference will look at patient subgroups from a clinical and research point of view covering the challenges they experience when participating in gluten challenges in celiac disease.

This activity is designed for physicians, nurses, pharmacists, dietitians, researchers, other healthcare professionals, and patients dedicated to the diagnosis and treatment of celiac disease and the utilization of gluten challenge in research.
